About the conference

The International Congress on Green Process Engineering series was created by Patrick Cognet and Martine Poux, from the University of Toulouse (France) in 2007. The first five congresses have been extremely successful (Toulouse in 2007, Venice in 2009, Kuala Lumpur in 2011, Sevilla in 2014 and Mont-Tremblant in 2016) and have attracted between 160 and 350 participants from academia, industry, and research organizations from around the world. GPE 2018 will provide an exceptionally stimulating international forum for presentation of industrial applications, emerging technologies and scientific advancements in the area of green process engineering.

GPE2018 will serve as a catalyst for the advancement of Green Process Engineering by connecting scientists and experts from academia and industry within and across disciplines from around the world.

Date and location

From 3 to 6 June 2018 at the ENSIACET Engineering School, Toulouse, France.

Expected number of participants

Around 250-300.

Why sponsor?

During this conference, the various academic, industrial and professional actors of the domain will be able to meet. Your presence will be the opportunity to promote, at an international level, the products, expertise and dynamism of your company in this sector. As partner of this event, you can contribute and communicate by different ways:

- the exposure of your products/services
- the diffusion of your advertising leaflets in the bag given to participants of the conference,
- or a sponsoring of your choice (see below).

Sponsorship packages

All companies which support GPE congress will have the opportunity to present their area of expertise by an oral communication in a special session of the congress.
